

April 4, 2007

To address recent concerns regarding the food safety of wheat gluten, we have conducted an audit of our wheat gluten suppliers. All have indicated that they do not currently use and have not previously used any Chinese sourced wheat gluten. Each supplier has been requested to provide our company with a written confirmation for our supplier management records.

Our goal is to provide customers with wholesome, high quality products, and we have established strict control measures for each part of the manufacturing process from the delivery of ingredients to the distribution of finished packages. We will continue to work with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration to stay abreast of this issue and provide customer updates as necessary.